We commented, on Tuesday last, upon the fact that the result of the recent elections in Vermont and Maine had wrought a mighty change in the strategy of the Republican party on the Currency question. For several months past, every Radical organ in the country has been yelling itself hoarse at the Greenbackers, as being "tramps and communists," and at the Democratic party for the alleged offense of sharing Greenback "heresies" and co-quetting with the "lunatics." But the elections have wrought a tremendous revulsion in the "convictions" of the Republican National Campaign Committee at Washington, and the organs must now abruptly change their tune. Here in North Carolina, it is true, and in the South, generally, to a considera-ble extent, the Radical managers had 'snuffed the breeze' of popular opinion, and in this State, especially, had courted and caressed the Greenbacker, per se, wherever he is suspected of holding the balance of power, or having a tendency to "independentism." Tour-gee, in the Fifth District, is the only man of the party who has had the boldness to adhere to the principles of money. At all events, Gorham, the Secretary of the National Radical Committee, and, as such, its official expouent, is trimming his sails to suit the wind and is now mailing speeches broadcast over North and South alike, to prove that the Republicans have been the steadfast friends and champions of paper money. He claims that they have resisted contraction and inflation; he does his level best to falsify and befuddle the records, and he ends by stealing the substance of Democratic platforms the benefit of his panic-stricken followers. Military tacticians pronounce it a gross imprudence to attempt a change of front in presence of the enemy, and Mr. Gorham and the Radical managers will have reason to understand the truth of this maxim before many months.

A Lordly Gift.

New Orleans Picayune. Among the contributions for the relief of the sufferers received Sept. 9 was one which deserves more than mere record. It is a gift of $1,000 from Baron Emile d'Erlanger, the eminent and wealthy banker of Paris, prompted no doubt by his very worthy and gene-ous wife, who was the eldest daughter of Senator John Slidell. This if we remember rightly, is the largest individual contribution yet received into the fund of the Howards this season. It may be but a trifle in comparison with the means of the donor, but it will give relief many sufferers. We are informed that Baron d'Erianger's generous gift was sent by telegraphic cable transfer at his own cost. He felt that help was needed at once, and he would not wait mail. It is a process now familiar to bankers, yet it is none the less one of the worders of modern science that a Parisian gentlemen can practically transfer a magnificent present of a thousand dollars to the suffering victims of a plague in a city four thousand miles off, in a single hour.

Moreover, at an informal cabinet conference yesterday, Evarts, Schurz, Devens and Sherman being present, the conclusion was reached that the order to exchange silver for greenbacks would probably put but little silver into general circulation, and as it would be in the nature of resumption, the proposed policy would hurt the prospects of the Republican party, judging from the news from Maine. As the result of this conference, the order was rescinded, and in lieu thereof it was decided to pay out silver dollars on currency liabilities. > PERSONAL APPEARANCE OF THE AC-CUSED. Secrest is a mere youth, scarcely twenty-one; he is about five feet ten and weighs one hundred and sixty pounds.

Of a clear complexion, dark brown hair and eyes. He is rather prepossessing, and under favorable circumstances would be pronounced a handsome fellow. The lower part of his face is low. The lower part of his face is heavy, presenting a massive countenance, so to speak, and with large neck and rather small head; destructiveness is plainly over-developed in his physiognomy. With little or no veneration and devoid of the finer feelings of intellectual development he could be capable of such a crime as that attributed to him, but his is not necessarily the face of a criminal, and no doubt the proper training of strict family discipline and good associations would have caused him to be found to-day in quite a dif-ferent sphere from that of the prisoner's box in a court of justice. His father is an elegant looking, old-fashioned country gentleman, and the shadow of sadness on his countenance does not obscure, but rather heightens the honest, manly beauty of mature years. The maiden name of the murdered lady was Ezell, and she, Secrest, and her first husband, Stevenson, (unaccountably sometimes called Stinson), all came of good Mecklenburg stock.

There are some fifty witnesses on each side, summoned from the neighborhood of the home of the parties in Union, and some from Catawba and Burke, in the neighborhood of where the bodies of the woman and child were found. Dr. Grissom, of the Insane Asylum, has been summoned by the defence as a medical expert in insanity, indicating that this may be the line of defence. Drs. R. C. Pearson and W. A. Now, the fact is that these very men either throw away or spend for useless trifles more money every month than it takes to dress heir wives and daughters. And then, if women of means do not dress well what is to become of the poor women what is to become of the poor women who sew for a living, and support helpless children on the few dollars which the much abused ruffles and puffs and flounces represent? The proper thing for people of means to do is to live as liberally as their incomes will permit, for neither men nor women will have pockets in their shrouds, and life at best is short. If this were generally done, newspapers would have generally done, newspapers would have less frequently to record instances of avarice and hard heartedness, and there would be less suffering among working people. Let it be remembered that goods are now cheap, and dress making correspondingly reasondress-making correspondingly reasonable. And let it not be forgotten that this world would be hideously ugly if it were not for the well dressed women who inhabit it .- Richmond Whig. Parents should endeavor to foster the natural desire possessed by almost all children, to have pets of some kind, for the influence on the minds of the young is very beneficial in many ways. The natural activity, of both mind and body, of childhood must have something to expend its surplus steam on; if efforts are not made by the parents to direct it in good, useful and desirable channels, it will often be productive of evil fruit. Teach the boys to stay at home during their leisure hours; that no place offers the same real, satisfying enjoyments that home offers; that their parents are at all times ready and willing to contribute to their pleasures to the extent of their ability, and you, parents will not have any cause, in after life, to complain of the restlessness and want of love of home too often manifested by hundreds of the young men of to-day. Money laid out in a few pets for the little ones is well spent as it does not require a very lavish outlay to secure a nice pair of rabbits, a couple of pair of nice pigeons, a couple of Guinea Pigs or some white mice, or other pets, and you will feel amply repaid for your expenditure in noticing the gleams of fairs in New England. Home Reminiscences of John Randolph of Roanoke. By Powhatan Bouldin, Danville, Va.

New York World. Mr. Bouldin could hardly fail to give us a readable book when he attempted the collection of Randolphian, for he had a fascinating subject, love for it and admirable sources of information. He had visited nearly every old citizen of Randolph's county of Charlotte and heard them talk of him, never seeming to tire of the theme; as central pieces he had the manuscript reminiscences. he had to e manuscript reminiscences of his father and of another old resident of Charlotte, and around these he succeeded in gathering many others of interest, if of minor importance, till he had, as he says, "a fund of choice and which had never been published." To gather fresh materials was his aim, and in it he was successful, thoroughly as the report. Mr. Bouldin assured him the whole subject had been gone over that it was all true only the names were by Benton, Sparks. "Mr. Randolph," says Mr. Bouldin, "was perhaps the most impressive man that ever lived, and his image is still alive in the minds of all who had the great fortune to see him his tall alive in the minds of all who had the told a friend that it was the only time good fortune to see him-his tall and slender frame, his long, bony fingers, his dark eyes, his withered and beard-less face, upon which there were so many wrinkles; his graceful bow, his lofty bearing. The most remarkable feature about him was his eyes." They were, says Mr. Bouldin's father, who saw the great Virginian in 1808 or 1809, "hazel of the darkest hue and had the appearance of being entirely black, unless you were very near him. They opened round, and when open nearly hid the lids, the dark, long lashes only showing. Their brilliancy surpassed snowing. Their brilliancy surpassed any I have ever seen." Dr. Jordan says he was "tall, slender, delicate and feeble, with a short body, long legs and arms, and the longest fingers ever seen." His head was not very large, but was symmetrical in the highest degree. The "long, bony finger" that has so often been written of and talled about really been written of and talked about, really appeared, when used in gesticulation, to have no bone in it, for when it had accomplished what it had been called into action for, "it would fall over on the back of his hand, almost as limp as a string." His eye, his forefinger and his foot were the the members used in gesticulation, and when he wished to call the attention of his audience particularly to anything the dience particularly to anything the ring of the slight patting of his foot was in perfect accord with the clear musical in onations of that voice which belonged only to Mr. Randolph." His speaking, Mr. W. H. Elliott writes, was "exquisite vocal music." So perfect was his pronunciation and so sharp the outline of every tion and so sharp the outline of every sound that as far as his voice could be heard his words could be distinguished.
"An accurate ear could distinguish, as he went along, commas, semi-colons, colons, full stops, exclamation and interrogation points, all in their proper places." Dr. Jordan says his voice was uncommonly shrill, but of that soft flute character that always elicited admiration, and, feeble as he was, he could always so modulate it as to make himself perfectly heard in the largest assemblies without the least strain: yet the individual sitting immediately under him would experience no inconvenience. Mr. Bouldin the elder heard him singing one night, and says he thought Randolph's singing as far surpassed other men's singing as his speaking surpassed other men's speaking. He was fond of music and had a talent for it. Mr. Bouldin describes him vividly as "walking very slowly and alone, a tall, spare, straight man, very neatly dressed in summer apparel—shoes, nankeen gai-ters and pantaloons, white vest, drab cloth coat of very fine quality and while beaver hat." Though he "had no shape but that he was forked," and had very long arms, all the way of the same size, still he had a most graceful appearance. Mr. Bouldin was a school-boy when he first saw Randolph riding by on horseback. He did not know who the rider was, but so remarkable was his appearance that young Bouldin, who was playing ball, failed to strike at the ball that had just been tossed to him. To mere strangers his manner was simply lofty and graceful; his bow, though it was slight, bending his body very little and rather leaning his head back than forward, was winning to those to whom it was addressed and seemed to carry with it marked attention and respect. His manner was wonderful. As the author of these "Home Reminiscences" says justly: "In him the vivida vis animi was always resplendent; his feelings were intense and all his faculties morbidly His words and actions were so

It Might Have Been.

When taking a retrospection of our past lives, how often does conscience whisper to broken spirits and wounded hearts the sad, sad words, "It might have been?" Thus it may be with the sufferer who endures the agonies of hemorrhoids, or piles, and heeds not the counsel to try Barham's Infallible Pile Cure, which is warranted to speedily and permanently oure this distress-ng disease. Manufactured by the Barham Pile Cure Co., Durham, N. C.

Necessity of Unity.

Mangum's, Thursday,

Under this caption, an intelligent correspondent of the Pee Dee Argus has been furnishing that paper with a series of striking articles. We have ourselves endeavored to enforce, by every consideration that should animate patriots and men of prudent discernment, the imperative necessity of co-operation, in the present exigency, upon the part of all true Democrats, and the last article of the Argus' contributor comes in so well to supplement all that we have said on this subject that venture to say, no parallel can be found we take pleasure in adopting it, with in history." some alteration, as our own utterance, of Barere, is an equally truthful foreand in commending it to thoughtful cast of Ben. Butler, the man who has

For two years Grant has been traveling over Europe, hob-nobbing with kings, playing the flunkey with emperors, drinking healths with the crowned heads, and making a spectacle of himself generally, by his owl like utterances; but beneath all this he is playing a deep game, and the stake is no I ss than the Imperial purple, at the hands of the American people. Can any sane man doubt this? Look at the teachings of the Republican Press. Everywhere they are advocating the necessity of a strong government and trying to educate the people up to the idea of an Empire, with Grant at the head, and it is a part of the programme that he shall familiarize himself with the workings of the monarchical systems of Europe, and win the good opinions of the rulers of the Old World. No sovereign has ever received such attention at the courts of Europe as Grant has. He has been the guest of kings and potentates, and it requires no stretch of the imagination to suppose that the astute statesmen of the Old World find in him the very material to co-operate with them in perpetuating their effete monarchies, by building up on this continent an Empire that will effectually destroy Republican governments and give a long lease to their own. Take these considerations with the fact that the Radical party of the United States had rather proclaim Grant king than that the Democratic party should succeed, and it requires no prophet to foretell that the coming elections are more important than any that have ever preceded them. Does their leader. If these things are true, what is the manifest duty of the Democratic party? Have we forgotten so soon the horrors of reconstruction; our best citizens disfranchised, our wives and children insulted and outraged by a licentious soldiery, quarted on us in times of profound peace, and governed by epauletted villains, who denounced us as "banditti?" Have we forgotten that they tive Committee of this District, in proelevated a servile race in authority over us, and robbed and plundered us for years? God forbid, that we should ever forget these and a thousand other

With these lights before us-with our souls, -can it be possible that any the carpet-bag negro, who is the nomi man who is Southern born can dare at nee of the Radical party. this junction to jeopardize the success of the Democratic party by running as an independent candidate, against the regular nominee of the party, or by voting for such a candidate? For the sake of country no patriot can dare do it. For the sake of humanity no man can so far forget his family, his race, or his own good name, as to do it. Look at Turner, at one time one of the most popular men in North Carolina, who defied Federal power in a defence of the rights of the people of North Carolina, who to-day stands before the people of the State as a traitor say the verdict is a righteou; one.

Massachusetts and Butler.

Our telegraphic despatches on yesterday described the abduction of a portion of the Democratic Convention of Massachusetts by Ben Butler. The piracy was ccomplished by a species of tactics which may be familiar to Massachusetts politics, but which has but one parallel in North Carolina,-we mean the "abduction" of the Radical Executive Committee by Josiah Turner. Butler has formally renounced his alle giance to the Radical party, but we are glad to observe, nevertheless, that this attempt of certain Massachusetts Democrats to take him up has not been accomplished without violent opposition, and, though we take no particular stock in Massachusetts politics as an average article, we trust that that opposition may be maintained to the end, as it will be. There are thousands of good and true Democrats in Massachusetts who will not, and can not, be led into the support of such a man. His present professions of sympathy with the masses, and all that, we believe to be a humbug and a pretence. He is anything and everything for-Butler. We may very properly introduce here the following article from the New Orleans Democrat:

"Had we hid away in our heart any cherished grudge against the people of Massachusetts, which we have not, we could not fancy a sweeter morsel for our malice to feed itself upon than the degradation Butler's elevation to the place he seeks would bring upon the State. It will be, indeed, a sad spec-tacle to see this man presiding over the destinies of the State that gave us the Adamses and which was the home of prototype in history, unless it be Bertrand Barere, of whom Macaulay solemnly said, with the avowed "purpose to do him, by the blessing of God, full and signal justice:" "Our opinion, then, is this, that Barere approached nearer than any person mentioned in history or fiction, whether man or devil, to the idea of consummate and universal depravity. In him the qualities which are the proper objects of hatred and the qualities which are the proper objects of coutempt preserve an exquisite and absolute harmony. In almost every particular sort of wickedness he has had rivals. His sensuality was immed rate; but this was a failing common to him with many great and amiable men. There have been many men as cowardly as he, some as cruel, a few as mean, a few as mpudent There may also have been as great liars, though we never met with them or read of them. But when we put everything together, sensuality, poltroonery, baseness, effrontery, men-dacity, barbarity, the result is some-thing which in a novel we should condemn as caricature, and to which, we

This, which is an accurate description of one of the oldest Commonwealths in the Union, at the hands of a respectable element of his fellow citizens, and who even stands a chance to consolidate the opposition to the Republican party in that State. For the sake of common lecency we trust that the Democrats of Massachusetts will scorn such a coaition. Let them nominate a straight ticket and lead it to certain defeat rather than lend itself to Ben. Butler.'

Jno. D. Cameron, Esq.

We had the pleasure of meeting this gentleman, the able and accomplished Editor of the Hillsboro' Recorder, in this city, on yesterday. It is the purpose of Mr. Cameron to present his claims before the Democrats of the next House of Representatives of the State for re election to the principal Clerkship of that body. He has twice discharged the duties of the position with signal capacity, and, we trust, may receive the endorsement of retention. He adds to eminent personal fitness for the position an unswerving and unselfish party fidelity. A gentleman of rare attainments and a Democrat from principle, his facile pen has always been enhisted on the side of liberal progress as well as party unity and success, and his efforts have been felt in the past achievements of the Democracy in North Carolina and in the advancement of all good public enterprises.

John Randolph, "for all that's come and gone," as old Edie Ochiltree used to say, stands out unrivalled in the Congressional annals of the last eighty years, a meteor of unsurpassed brilliancy. A troubled meteor at times, unany one doubt that Grant is the favorite doubtedly, and of most eccentric orbit, of the Radical party for the nomination flashing athwart the sky with strange in 1880? He is the only man that can fires and incomprehensible gyrations, rally them, and will undoubtedly be but brilliant to to the last, and leaving, as he disappeared from the firmament he had so long illuminated, no rival behind him. The reader will be interested, therefore, in the recollections of him, which we publish elsewhere to-

Second Congressional District.

The action of the Democratic Execuposing to hold a Convention in Goldsboro, on the 1st. proximo, for puposes of consultation, is to be commended. We trust the best results may flow political tortures they subjected us to from this conference, and that they may be able to take such action and devise such means as will prevent the the history of the past burnt deep in District from being misrepresented by

> In a discussion at Yadkinville, last Tuesday, Brower, Radical candidate against Col. Armfield, endeavored to make capital out of the recent card published by the Hon. W. M. Robbins. Mr. Robbins happened to be present and inflicted a castigation upon Brower that he will not soon forget. The Statesville Landmark says: "The best feeling prevails in Yadkin county. Col. Armfield will not only carry the full party vote, but will receive a liberal Republican support " —not a word of information has he does he advance as to the financial con--not a word of information has he upon the present aspect of national affairs,-but his harangues consist simply and solely of ribald denunciation of individuals and a general raking up of old garbage.

William A. Smith, of Johnston, it is said, intends to have a meeting of Republicans in his county to denounce the action of the proxies and substitutes of the so-called Radical Executive Committee in endorsing Turner. And so goes on the work of Radical harmony and Democratic "pulver-

The Radical lovers of "the dear people" are terribly disgruntled at the election of a stone-cutter over Hale, in Maine. And now the leading Radical organ in Chicago ridicules the nomination by Democrats in Illinois of a shoemaker, named Shaw, and of one Poe, 'a small farmer," as the Tribune sar castically calls him.

Beecher, the wicked Beecher, said in a recent lecture in California: "Now. 1 have always noticed that the conscientious and religious minded, when they pray over a matter, almost invariably become willing to follow the finger o Providence when it points from six per cent to ten per cent."

It is a significant fact that while Josiah Turner has been denouncing "Bill Smith" in all his speeches, elsewhere, he was as silent as the grave about Webster-this creature, who has no him in all his harangues in Johnston county. "Billy's horn," however, is not to be silenced by so thin a dodge

> It is remarkable that the Island of sprus, which the Jewish premier of England has just won from Turkey, was wrested from Venice in 1571 by Hassi, Jewish prime minister of Turkey at

When Judge Thurman visits the State Fair in October, we suggest that he be invited to address the people, in this city, on the financial issues of the day. There will be a large crowd of North Carolinians here who will be glad to hear him.

The Massachusetts Democrats, in reference to Butler, should remember the old proverb that he needs a long spoon who sups with a certain personage-and they had better keep a tight hold on the spoon, too.

Perhaps we have done Mr. Hayes injustice in accusing him of a violation of Civil-Service Reform pledges. His received a nomination for Governor letter of acceptince promised certain reforms, "if elected." He never was, and so it doesn't count.

PAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 12, 1878.

MRS. JOE PERSON.

Dear Madaw, I have been using your Remedy for scrolula over five months as an expe. iment for cancer. The cancer is of long standing, the Doctors have been treating it, more or less, for twelve years, it has taken off my upper lip and a good part of my nose. When I began to use your Remedy it was growing rapidly worse, but the medicine appeared to check it very soon, and it has not made much progress since, except about two months ago, the medicine gave out, and I was without several days. It then seemed to start anew, and grew worse very fast, until I had taken the medicine about a week, since then it has not changed much. I think if I could have had the medicine soon enough, it would have cured me.

For more than a year before using your medicine, I was troubled very much with a disease of the heart, an irregularity in its action. It would miss every third beat for hours, then at other times it would increase in its action, and run up to 200 beats per minute. Since using your medicine I am almost entirely relieved of this, rarely reel it, and then not enough to speak of it. I would recommend any one suffering with heart cisease to try your medicine. As a Tonic and Alteratives, I do n tthink it has any superior. I have been using all the most powerful Alteratives a nown to the medical profession for the last 12 years and I know of none superior to this. I think your medicine is destined to be a great blessing to the afficted. Let every one that ueeds a Toeic or an Alterative give it a trial, and I do not think they will be disappointed.

Very truly and Respectfully,

HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILL

Hege's Improved Circular Saw Mill, is no new a dnuntried saw mill, but is one that is well and favorably known in many sections, and wherever it is introduced it is fast superceding all others. It is simple in construction, yet reliable in operation, and is sold for less than any other first class: aw mill. Send for descriptive circular Lever Feed Cutter.

Is something entirely new and novel in the feed cutter line. With this cutter the feed in cut off diagonally, instead of square across, as is the case with all other cutters, at the same time our cutter has a draw cut, acting exactly on the same principle that a knife is used is cutting off a sick, consequently with our Diagonal Feed Cutter we can cut more feed with less labor in a given time than any other cutter costing twice as much.

Price reduced to $3.00. Send for circular. Liberal discount to agents. No goods consigned. Manufactured by the Sal m Agricultural Works, Salem, N. C. THE SALEM PLOW Will not Choke, Runs light, Easily Regulated.

From the Old to the New.

In a day or two the post office people will move into their new quarters, and bid a last farewell to the box in which they have been so long quartered. Until the new furniture can be prepared they will only have that at present in use. The contract for the very handsome and convenient furniture is now let, and it will be finished in about six weeks. The present furniture is but ill adapted to the needs of the office, but in view of its speedy replacement by better, the authorities will bear with it. The public must not expect it to be permanent.

The attractive double column advertisement of this enterprising merchant is presented in this morning's News. Mr. Baker is one of the most energetic and successful business men in this thoroughly honest in all his dealings, it is not surprising that he has built up a large, profitable business as a wholesale grocer and commission merchant, on Wilmington street. Encouraged at his success in the grocery busiaess, after five years experience, he has enlarged his borders by fitting up a dry goods watermelous from Beaufort to New establishment on Fayetteville street, which he has stocked with a full and -- A small bull attached to a wagon | selected line of dry goods, clothing, noof size to match, excited the laughter tions, boots and shoes, all of which he has bought at the lowest cash prices. terday by making a neat run from the thus enabling him to compete with the new we he flice to the Palace, in the other first-class houses in this city. One of the most attractive features of hibition in aid of the Oxford Orphan the Fair, now so rapidly approaching, will be the introduction of the fascinating amusement of Glass Ball Shooting. It possesses all the interest of pigeon shooting, without the cruelty attending that sport.

Traps are arranged from which, by springs, colored glass balls are thrown into the air, at varying angles, as a bird would rise, and the sportman's effort is to shiver the ball in time. Many gentlemen in various sections having signified a desire for the inauguration of this amusement at the Fair, the Secre-The Governor has appointed Capt. tary announces that a splendid import-J. D. YOUR HEALTH WILL BE PRESERVED BY ITS PURITY.

WARRANTED TO KEEP IN ANY CLIMATE

We do most earne-tly caution consumers of Baking Powder against using adulterated and cheap goods, as no good and pure Baking Powder can be sold for less than ours.

An analysis of the cheap clap-trap spurious adulterated goods called Baking Powder, would startle the community of consumers beyond precedence, as most of it is not fit for use, and would not be allowed to be sold were the laws enforced; yet goods of this kind are manufactured and sold by dealers because ofered cheap by usserupulous manufacturers. We caution those who value health, and appreciate good, wholesome living to buy only Pure Baking Powder. Jones' Unrivated is such. It is an established article throughout the West and South, and is recommended by the highest authority for Purity and Strength. All first-class storekeepers have it because it is pure and can be relied upon, and is a credit to their stock.

Merchasts are authorized to warrant our goods where directions are followed.

Our statements are correct and are backed by chemists of note and experience, and we hold ourselves ready to prove our assertions.

We are offering goods of undoubted purity, which are in their compounding, as we claim "UNITVALED."
